Roxanne L. Ballard, Associate

Roxanne's law practice focuses on medical malpractice and nursing home defense, serving residential long term care facilities, assisted living, and other disabled or senior citizen residential establishments. She has experience defending liability and negligence claims brought against nursing homes and assisted living facilities under comprehensive general liability, errors and omissions, and malpractice policies.

As a former nursing home administrator, Roxanne's first-hand insight into the management and running of an elder care facility on a daily basis is invaluable to clients. Nursing home abuse and nursing home negligence is often loosely defined, making it critical to work with an experienced nursing home attorney to guide any legal processes that might arise.
